- Coffee is the leading product category by both quantity sold and total sales.
- Hell's Kitchen generates the highest overall sales among the three store locations.
- Lower Manhattan has the highest average transaction value indicating higher customer spend per transaction.
- Astoria leads sells for several top product types including Brewed chai tea hot chocolates and gourmet breed coffee.
- Barista Espresso is the strongest performing product type of a role and is particularly strong in Hell's kitchen.

RECOMMENDATIONS

- Prioritize coffee and high performing products to maintain availability and reduce mixed sales opportunities.
- Investigate Lower Manhattan's higher transaction value to identify products, bundles or customer behaviors that could be replicated elsewhere.
- Strengthen Astoria's successful product mix, particularly Brewed Chai Tea, Hot Chocolate and Gourmet Brewed Coffee.
- Use Hell's Kitchen as a benchmark for Barista Espresso performance and investigate what is driving its stronger sales.
- Review lower performing products and locations for possible pricing, promotion, placement or product-mix improvements.
